

Leisure Facilities

Below are some facts and stats that show how disabled people in the UK are systematically discriminated against.

The Department for Culture, Media and Sport's Taking Part 2005/6 Survey found:

- three out of 10 disabled people go to the cinema compared to almost six in 10 non-disabled people

The Department for Work and Pensions' Disabled for life? Attitudes towards, and experiences of, disability in Britain 2002 Survey found:

- one in five survey respondents had experienced difficulties accessing goods and services as consumers and most of them said the problems encountered were directly related to their disability. The main types of difficulties experienced were physical barriers to access goods, services and leisure venues; the denial of entry into buildings; and the accessibility of public transport
